Grid Reference: 225955 881153

Distance to nearest turbine: 8672m

This viewpoint is located approximately 18km southeast of Ullapool.

From Ullapool, travel southeast on the A835 until you reach the southern end of Loch Broom. After the road leaves the shores of Loch broom continue for another 600m at which point you will cross over the Inver Lael bridge. Immediately afterwards, on the left there is a car park with a telephone box at the southern end. Leave the A835 here and park up. Now on foot, start by going back out of the car park entrance and then turning sharp right onto a track that runs parallel with the car park and the A835. This swings left near the house to head up towards Inverlael Forest.

From this point on it is strongly recommended that the user sources designated mapping for this walk. There are several websites detailing walks to the summit of Beinn Dearg.

The camera location is just below the summit approximately 100m from the stone cairn as shown in the above photograph.
